Visionary for ecologically sustainable architecture

By Pamela J.

Its amazing in a time where everyone is beginning to grasp the need for customizing a home to the landscape while incorporating all of the natural principals of sustainable living along with newly devised principals, one only needs to look back to Frank Lloyd Wright's "The Natural House" to find the elements he envisioned for not only the elite custom homes, but the simple urban homes as well. It's no wonder the man is still revered around the world; he was a true visionary and his principles hold true today more than ever. Being able to pay a few dollars for this book through Amazon was just icing on the cake.
