This book is an unusual, fascinating and well-written observation of the life of a man who was first a war hero and Medal of Honor winner from the Korean War, then Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, thirdly a monk, and finally, elected Pope. His overly exciting life is described by three men who 'knew him well.' The first narrator is a Marine, telling of their time together in Korea. The second, a Constitutional scholar and Supreme Court Justice appalled at the new Chief Justice, narrates the second phase. The third is a Cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church; fat, kind but distracted. The Marine cares for him the most, the Supreme Court Justice condescends and despises him, and the Cardinal is much more interested in food than his subject. But Declan Walsh was a man who earned the Medal of Honor while ordering the death of his best friend, ruled pragmatically and energetically on the Court but lost his wife to death and neglect, and became a miraculous healer assassinated for challenging the powers that rule the secular world. A good read!

Outstanding book!

By Michael S. Chavez

I originally bought this book when it first was issued in paperback. While packing to move over 10 years ago, I gave away 15 boxes of books, including this one. I've regretted it ever since, and have often spoken of the book to my family and friends. Finally, I decided to get another copy, and I've enjoyed it as much as the first time through.

It is well-written, well-paced, and speaks of what might be for the Catholic Church (I'm a cradle Catholic) were to be led by someone with the simple humanity of Papa Francesco! Despite the pretty much inevitable denouement, I was still captivated by the story and inspired by the fictional life of this man.

very good writing. Read it. It would make a great movie or tv minimovie.
